

"Show Time" And School Participant

Berenice Ludvig, Estate Diamond-Ruby, is actively involved in WIVH's ministry. She recently attended WIVH's Show Time, held the first Saturday of each month. She also participates in WIVH's correspondence School and has called in to "Shirl and You."

WIVH: Where Families Listen

School is out and children are heard calling WIVH. "This assures us that families are listening to the station," said Burl Updyke, station manager. He said WIVH has a heart for families and desires to impress upon them the need to raise families in the admonition of the Lord Jesus. WIVH's programming is designed to help in this way.

The Royer family, pictured in this edition of the Voice feel that it is wonderful to have a Christian station for the family to listen to. On "Shirl And You," recently, an eight year old girl who lives in Texas called to say her family was listening while they visited in St. Thomas. She and her family realize the importance of keeping their minds on Christ, even on vacation. " We listen to WIVH each time we visit here," said Isioma Chiaieka.

Fifteen year old, Bianca Al Monte, of Fredriksted, called and expressed her thoughts about the hurricane season. She talked of the steps her parents take to ready the house for high winds and how a battery operated radio was used then. She remembered one storm that was "almost fun," as the family visited friends who had a generator and a pool. "We were in it during the storm," she said. It was obvious, though, that she and the family took the season very seriously.

When 14 year old, Chistian Parrille, called, she was at her grandmother's home in Mary's Fancy. She planned to spend her summer doing things for the community, some of that work includes giving food to the elderly.

Marion Mitchell, F'sted, is not a child, however, she was a first time caller to WIVH. She said, "I love everything about WIVH and I learn so much from the broadcasts."

Shows Her Support For WIVH

Wanting to show her support of WIVH, Cardelia Mills called the station for a sticker to place on her car. She works at K-Mart West and listens to WIVH anytime she is not at work. She lives in Kingshill.

Prayer and Praise

PRAY: as the hurricane season approaches; for safety among the people in the islands.

PRAY: as WIVH continues to radiate the Good News of the Gospel over the airwaves.

PRAISE: WIVH hears daily from people finding the station for the first time. Listener ship continues to grow.

PRAY: WIVH is listener-supported, pray that listeners will give as they are able.

PRAY: May God's blessings be upon the station's listeners as they learn of the Savior.

"It's great to listen to WIVH."

John Royer claimed his winning CD at the studios. With him were his wife and sons. Shown are John, Janice, Kadale, Jonell, and Mikael.

At The Studios

Tiffany and Jon Bowman

It's always a joy to have visitors stop at WIVH studios and we meet many of our listeners while we are out and about. They are everywhere! PTL It amazes us that a large percentage of the people we meet say "Yes, I listen to WIVH". By the way, when you plan a trip out to the studios, if possible, give us a call before coming. Call 718-2852.

Our biggest praise of the month is the fact that Sage, our daughter, was baptized recently. We have three other children we believe will someday make the decision to do the same.

Nakeita Huggins, F'sted, has been listening for a long time to WIVH. We met her recently on "Shirl and You."

What a surprise to hear from eight year old, Isioma Chiaieika, who was listening in St. Thomas. "We always listen to WIVH when we are here," she said. That's once a year. She and her family live in Texas where it is very hot. Her family is from Nigeria, Africa, and they appreciate the wonderful sea breezes in St. Thomas.

We were delighted to recently talk to Moralie Ferrol, who is from California. She is Catherine Ferrol's daughter and was visiting her mother. She brought along her nine year old son, who will remain here for a summer visit with Catherine. While here Moralie enjoyed the favorite foods she misses in California.

Jay Leach, is back in town, Christiansted, with good news concerning his wife, Ann. Her health is much improved. Jay noticed the tremendous improvement in WIVH's radio signal. He lives just over the hill from WIVH, but noticed how much greater coverage the station has over the entire island.

"I always have a good day, I can't help but have a good one when I remember who God is and where He stands." This was the sentiment of Anselma Ayala, F'sted, When we talked to her she was temporarily working at home. "I'm a people person, so I can't wait to get back to the office," she said.

Another new caller was Debbie Jagrup, Princess East. She was originally from St. Lucia. She and her husband, Gideon, have now lived in St. Croix for 25 years. She is a regular WIVH listener.

In the here and there department.....We were reminded, recently, that Virginia Simon, accepted Christ while listening to Christian radio; Anella Penney loves coconut drops. She says

Station Operator's Daughter Baptised

Shown at the recent baptism of Sage Bowman, daughter of Jonathan and Tiffany Bowman, operators of WIVH, is Pastor Beltane Harrigan, and her dad.

Also present for the happy event were Sage's grandparents, Duane and Annette Updyke, of Pennsylvania.

they are like a bun. She also loves WIVH and Martha Raphael, Strawberry Hill, says, "Thank you so much for your efforts to win souls and strengthen believers."

See you at the studios!!
