

Students Check in for See You at the Pole LIVE!

What a joy it was to talk to students on See You At The Pole LIVE as they gathered at their school flagpoles for See You at the Pole the last Wednesday in September!

Tim Madeira spoke to students during the simulcast on WIVH and our sister station WRGN, and the most often heard comment was our students' desire to see their schools won for Christ! It was great to hear students serious about their schools and willing to take a stand at their school flagpoles.

Attendance varied from just one student at a flagpole to one hundred at another, but the message was clear: our students are broken before the Lord and are praying for revival within their schools, their families, and our nation as a whole.

Free Will Baptist Christian School in Christiansted (pictured to the right) reported about 50 students at their flagpole, which brought our totals to over 600 students that reported in for See You at the Pole LIVE!

Chrisian Music Broadcasters Meet Artists

Tim bumped into David Crowder ("My Victory" and "Forgiven") in the hallway at CMB. He has a unique sense of humor to go along with that bushy beard. He also has a heart for writing songs that dig deep and glorify the Lord!

Last year's CMB event in Orlando was greatly affected by Hurricane Irma, with the convention center losing power and many attendees stranded. This year's went off without a hitch, but the memory of Irma was still there!

Zach Williams ("Old Church Choir") punched Heather's lunch ticket at the Christian Music Broadcasters convention, a tradition that started years ago with Steven Curtis Chapman.

FROM US

to you

To the WIVH family,

The view from the WIVH tower site is amazing on a clear day. There are times you can see St. Thomas! However, visibility can quickly decrease as clouds roll in. Sometimes as the changes and stresses in our lives roll in, it can cause us to be very short-sighted in God's ability to work in our lives.

Like a series of gray and rainy days can make us almost forget what the warmth of the sun feels like, a period of spiritual struggle can bring on a feeling of emptiness or even deep depression. In Psalm 13:1, David cries out to God, "How long, O Lord? Will you forget me forever?" As a believer, regardless of the extent of our spiritual maturity, it's possible to reach a point so low we actually feel that everyone—even God—has abandoned us.

We often hear from listeners who tell us that just the right song or message heard at just the right time can be all it takes to increase their faith. It's a great reminder to us that listener supported WIVH is an important spiritual resource to those who hear it. Because WIVH is listener supported, you help make this resource available when you give and when you encourage others to listen. Thank you for helping break through the spiritual clouds with the light of God's love!

Working with you,

Tim + Heather

Unplug or Plugged In?

If you have teens in your house or were just considering a date night with your spouse at Carribean Cinema on St. Croix or St. Thomas, you may want to check out pluggedin.com first. It's not just about movies though! Plugged In from Focus on the Family is an entertainment guide full of the reviews you need to also make wise personal and family-friendly decisions about videos, music, TV, games, and books.

WIVH also carries a radio short called Plugged In with Bob Waliszewski weekdays at 9:27 each morning and evening. Bob is a trusted media and culture analyst and each day he highlights one of five of the "big-deal" areas in the entertainment world today. Each day's show is designed to help parents process what is available for families today, ensuring that they're equipped to deal with all that contemporary culture throws at them. Don't let that movie, song, or video game catch you by surprise—get Plugged In!
